THE ALLEGO FERNCH FRAUDS.

[Evening Post Washington Special, April 29]

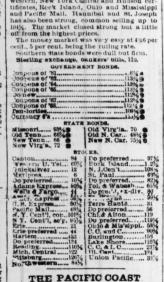

The alleged discovery of frauds, perpetrated by M. Victor Piece, French Consul General at New York, lu the purchase of arms during the late-way, has created much surprise bore. The French Charge D'Affairs says, very positively, that, so far as known, M. Piace has perpetrated no frauds, and he is not suspected of having done so. The point of the matter is this: That he claims that under certains orders he is entitled to a commission on purchases, while the French Government takes the desire the French Government takes the desire that the first the CLAIMS OF FENIARS AGAINST THE DOMINION.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—It will be remembered that soon after the Joint High Commission met the Canadian Government submitted its bill for damages arising from the Fenian Invasions. These have never been seriously considered by the Commission, on the ground that they did not come within the basis of the agreement for the formation of the Commission. Latterly the State Department has received another, kind of Fenian claims, being from some of the Fenians themselves, who demand payment for damages of the Dominion of Canada, for false imprisonment. One of the claimants writes to Secretary Fish inquirieg if he shall submit his claim direct to the Commission or to this government. The Secretary replied that as soon as arrangements are perfected for a commission to arbitrate the individual claims of American cit zens against Great Britan ducanotice will be given to the public. In another letter the Secretary guardedly intimates that the present Commission to tense the commission of the present Commission to tense the commission of the present Commission to the rest. pecial Telegraphic Correspond

Every sentiment of philanthropy, every principle of public economy, calls for the application of sound sense and practical business rules in the treatment of those who offend the law. The time has passed when it was considered that the prisoner had no rights to be respected by society, and the State no duties to exercise toward the prisoner, but those of vengeance and self-defense. Experience shows that, by proper treatment, the State may reclaim the services of a large per cent. Of her criminals, and effect their positive reformation at much less expense than where no effort is made to improve the convict. Remarkable as it may be easily the convict, that furnishes him with constant employment and industrial training at some ma. Why just here hes the gist of the whole thing. We abate none of our hostility to the Kuklux; and we claim to have done something to organize public opinion against them. We urged the Kentucky Legislature to pass a special act to cover the case. The result of our action is a marked diminution of crime. The Con-gressional act is not designed nor calculat-ed to quell disturbance or punish murder. It is an act of war, declaring a rebellion It is an act of war, declaring a rebellion to exist which does not exist, clothing a partisan President with extraordinary martial powers, and arranging a plan for hedging a general election round with bayonets to be commanded by one of the candidates for the office of Chief Magistrate. Does the Pittsburg Commercial see no difference in a Kuklux bill passed by Congood food and fresh air to the convict, that furnishes him with constant employ-ment and industrial training at some use-tal trade, that stumulates his good conduct by rewarding it with increased privileges, that separates the hardened villain from ference in a Kuklux bill passed by Congress on the assumption of a state of war, and passed at the instance of an avowed spirit of hoatility to the great body of the people of the South, and a Kuklux bill provided by the people of the several States for their own protection and wellbeing? Is there no difference between a partisan inachine for suppressing the mile of habeas corpus and a local, self-constituted measure for keeping the peace? Is it that separates the hardened villain from those more amenable to good influences, will be cheapest to the State from the very first, and make regularly a visible return, that may be seckened for money, and an inestimable gain every year of some reclaimed transgressors.

It does not pay to put a lot of abandoned wretches into a hole, ill ventilated and all lighted, and leave them to these over tuted measure for keeping the peace? Is it one and the same for Kentucky, through the Kuklux, and for the President of the United States, by the aid of bayonets and ill lighted, and leave them to their own devices, for a longer or shorter period, and then let them loose at intervals upon so-ciety. It does not pay to leave the care of martial law, to suppress Kentucky? We think there is. He who is able to make no distinction between our criticism upon the Kentucky Legislature for failing to convicts, that requires so much judgment and calls for the highest ability, to the hands of political partisans. It does not pay that those who, through vice and the Kentucky Legislature for failing to pass a law covering a matter of domestic violence and our criticism upon Congress for passing an act setting aside all the precedents of our political history and all the guarantees of our Constitution, making a dictator of the President and a haddle of miscrable dependents on Federal clemency of the Southern States, must be in deed both blind and deaf. crime, have become the wards of the State and for whose reformation and care the State is responsible, should be left to the tender mercies of those whose only the tender mercies of those whose only am is to enrich themselves through convict labor. The prison discipline of a Commonwealth should be uniform throughout its whole extent, and should be directed by one mind, enlightened by a knowledge of all that has been done and is doing in the field of prison reform all over the world. The care of the State over the state of the state over the state over the state of the state over A man may deserve to be hanged. But, because he deserves to be hanged, we do not propose to draw and quarter him, or to burn him at the stake. We do not even go about hanging him until he has been indicted, arrested, tried, found guilty and ot the State over these its unfortunate children should not cease the moment they are released from her prison gates, but should continue to aid and help them sentenced, all according to fixed and well-defined forms of law. There is almost as defined forms of law. There is almost as much in the method as in the law itself. The Commercial might as well charge us with abetting, murder if we should refuse to sanction an edict punishing it by means of the guillotine instead of the gallows, and at the hands of a committee of salety instead of a court of justice, as charge us with going back on our record acquiret the until they are secure from the first few weeks of temptation that assail them on their return to society, when every honest door is carefully shut against them, every honest eye regards them with suspicion, and, as has been truly said, when "the only hand quistrettenth toward." when "the only hand outstretched toward them is one that tries to pull down and with going back on our record against the Kuklux because we denounce a measure which oversets all established usage destroy instead of strengthening and up-holding." Only one State in the Union has as yet officially made any attempt to provide for the convict after the expiration of his sentence, and in only three States is there any private action in this direction. and creates in its place a partisan tribun supported by military and proscriptive The Kuklux bill, as a criminal proceed ing, is simply a scheme to pack the jury-

Of course it is too much to expect that ing, is simply a scheme to pack the jury-box at the instance of one class of citizens against the lives and property of another class of citizens. It is not a measure of justice, based upon legal precedent, but an act of war, based only upon despotic military practice. As a civil and political question it is much more; it clothes the candidate of one party with martial pow-ers; it gives him leave to suspend the writ the problems of social science are to be solved by merely looking at them, espe solved by merely looking at them, especially as it has been but a few years since the fact of the existence of such a science has been generally admitted. But many of the States are moving in the right direction, and we would not have Kentucky among the laggards. At the late national congress of all interested in penitentiary and reformatory discipline, which was held in October last at Cincinnati, delegates were present from Canada, South America ers; it gives him leave to suspend the wri of habeas corpus at his pleasure, and to order the national troops hither and you at his will, or on the call of his agents; it embraces all the features of an edict of dic-tatorship, and has been arranged to cover the period of the Presidential canvass, so that the President may not only force his nomination, but compel his re-election, or, in default of this, hold on to his office by were present from Canada, South America and from twenty-five of the States of our Union. The proceedings of that congress, with the various papers read at its meetings, have just been published in a thick octavo volume of over 600 pages by the Argus Company, Albany, N. Y. I knew series and see who make his fortune by attending to his C*m business. Tell the lady I will see her presently."

The man who became President in 1856 was found of saying that this remark of Andrew Jackson humilisted hid more that any rebute he had ever received. He waited down stairs to meet his fair charge, and in a very short time President Jackson entered the room, dressed in a full suit of bisck, cleanly shaved, with his stubborn white his forced back from his remarkable face, and avancing to the beautiful Britisher shutch his function of the White House she exclaimed to her except. "Four republican President is the royal model of a gentleman."

A Miss Crippen, one year old, has just celebrated her first birthday at her residence in Concord, N. H. A local paper says: "At about 3 o'clock the carriages began to arrive, and by 4:45 there were assembled some thirty and by 4:45 there were assembled some thirty acties and gentlemen, aged from eleven weeks through the eleven weeks through the eleven weeks two long the eleven weeks through the old two long tables, around which twenty four high-chairs' had been placed, and the usual risuds were most lavishly served. Prominent as the bills of fare were gingerbread elephants and roosters, biscuits, one mach is diameter, and choice cakes of similar dimensions."
